TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 20. BEPRESENTATIVE MENAND HERO

The Northern press seems thrown into a paroxview of extatic hope, exhibited in jubilant sinlations of sanguino triumph-by the criticlams of Governer FOOTE in the Confederate House of Representatives, upon the President. We are not surprised at it, for man-worship, or anobbish deference to position, effice, rank is with the denisons of those bereal political regions, a normal attribute; a President, or Governor, or judge, or general, viewed by them through the medium of an intrinsic personal therity, is the subject of sacred apotheosis, and yearning idolatry.

Such being their moral and intellectual mittal point in regard to men, they have, from the beginning of this year-partly, no flected opinion, or disaffection, of certain men, and that the "crushing of the rebellion" would nals. While we have no intention of disparage war-worn veterans again in the field. ing the character and position of the President, or Gov. FOOTH, we may remark to the Philehave not; that our people themselves are the living stones of our soulety, the living Intellectual and moral lights of our cause, lights like the living scanges of ALLAH MACAULAY, much surpassing in value the dead but burnished andelabra of rank and wealth, the work of men's leaning that here the President is but the equal of any other gentloman of equal virtue and intelligence : that our cause is not embedied in Mr. Davis, nor any other single man; that Mr. Foors is not a type of the popular thought, or in anywise an organ of the popular will in its aspects of discontent any more thun his colleague, Mr. SWANN, is in its aspects of satisfaction : and that it is as true that Mr. FOOTE has the shillity to overthrow the President, and with him the cause, as It is that the cause is so far embedied in the President, as that the withdrawsl of the pepular confidence from him, or his overthrow would impair or destroy the great cames itsuit. While we have no doubt that the wrinciples of a great cause may have sometimes found embodiment or expression in a man of great intellect and energy, we are rather disposed to think that the theory of representative men, and the practice of hero-worship are the fruits of totalthal coussit, and moral self-spasament of shills and inside and said and spaint and spaint arrsaus. As we have observed that clergymen, lawyers, physicians, ere regarded with diminfusion of incological, legal, and unsdical knowl.
